As the third in line, our Finnish distributors, Luode Consulting, ordered a new Colifast ALARM. The instrument has been placed in their office in Espoo and is currently monitoring the water they receive from the Helsinki drinking water treatment plant. This water actually originates from the distant Lake Päijänne and travels through a 120 km long rock tunnel before it reaches Helsinki waterworks. The reason for why Luode placed the instrument on its own intake was not concern for the water quality, but rather because they want to use the instrument as a training device and thus get to know the Colifast ALARM even better. Our skilled distributors deserve a pat on the back!

Colifast stand at WEFTEC 2016

Our US sales representative Premier Water invited us to join them in attending WEFTEC 2016 – Water Environment Federation’s Technical Exhibition and Conference. It is the largest annual exhibition in the world for water quality professionals and their exhibition space can hold more than 1,000 companies. We displayed the Colifast ALARM instrument and many interested people made contact. We are therefore very pleased with the outcome of the event and that Premier Water is so eager to get our technology out to the North American market.

The Colifast technology described in newly published book

Elsevier is a worldwide provider of scientific literature and has recently published the book Competition for Water Resources. Among other things, the book provides insight into product innovations in water management. In that regard our products, Colifast ALARM and Colifast At-Line Monitor (CALM) as well as the technology behind are presented. Please click this link for further information.
